

My Scrapbag

WILBUR, U.S.A. — Wilbur, America's average employee, is a group reading. He has just pinned to his bulletin board:

"Signed: The boss
Wilbur shook his head. Later in the morning he sneaked downstairs to get a haircut on company time. Before attacking with his shears, the barber bowed and handed him a sheet of paper covered with figures.

"What is this, Tony?" asked Wilbur.
"My profit-and-loss statement for the last 20 years," replied Tony. "What do I care about that?" said Wilbur.

"I'm tired of hearing the public say barbers are scalping them," said Tony. "You will please note my car is five years old and I am still using the same scissors I started business with. Just can't afford a new pair."

Fascinated, Wilbur studied the figure. After work he dropped into a bar across the street. With his martini the bartender held out a black notebook.

"My income tax payments for the last five years," he said. "The politicians say they are clean as a hound's tooth—well, I'm cleaner than a toothless hound. You can see us tax payment for 1949. I want to go into that in details. I worked for my brother that year, and my brother shows when he works for a member of his own family he can't even steal enough to make him pay taxes."

Still later, when he entered his neighborhood grocery store, Wilbur was dazed to see the butcher scribbling like mad.

"The housewives are demanding a complete accounting of my finances," he said. "They even started an ugly rumor that I was curing my lumbago with a mustard plaster made of $100 bills. Cigie with me, Mrs. Peeble. I want you to know the full truth."

Wilbur followed him to the back room where the butcher peeled to the waist. Five $10 bills were banded across one kidney.

"You can see how easily things get exaggerated, can't you?" demanded the butcher.

Wilbur laughed to himself all the way home.

"The political candidates now have got the voters following their bare-your-bankbook campaigns," he told his wife, and added jokingly: "When are you going to give me a public report on your private man coat fund?"

"I'm glad you brought that up, Wilbur," said Trellis Mae. She went to a vase and shook out a small storm of paper.

"The fund is empty," she said. "But I have ten of your I.O.U.'s totaling $150. What I want to know is what you did with the money. And don't tell me you used it to fight Communism. Are you subsidizing the new blonde stenographer in your office?"

Wilbur's mouth opened and closed like a winded goldfish.

"I deny all," he said. "I will not dignify such baseless accusations with an answer. This trend toward financial nudism has got to stop somewhere, and it is going to stop right here."

But if you think it did — well, you just don't know Trellis Mae.

Three Automobiles Recovered by State Police

Arkansas State Police recovered three stolen cars in this district yesterday, one followed a 95-mile hour chase from Nashville to Memphis which ended in the arrest of a couple of 13-year-old Texas youths.

Texarkana Lou Luter tried to stop the youths at Nashville and chased them to Lockesburg before they were stalled by a road block. The youths, both 13 years old, live at Greenville, Texas, but stole the Sulphur Springs. They were over to the FBI.

The youths drove off without the passenger, Greenhill Motor Dallas, was picked up here by Trooper Charlie Boyd, who was released because he knew him and wouldn't pros-

45 Chinese War Prisoners Die in Wild Riot

120 Others Are Wounded by U.S. Guard

Chancery Court Thursday, Circuit Court Is Oct. 6

The October session of the Hempstead Chancery Court will convene on Thursday, October 2nd, with Judge James H. Pilkinson of Hope presiding. The following cases are on the docket for trial:

Pearl Rosenbaum vs Newton Rosenbaum.
R. M. Lagrone, Jr. vs Henry Linton, et al.

Edward Pree vs Maille Bell Fleury.

Two Americans were injured slightly in the bloodiest rioting among Communist war prisoners since last February.

The die-hard Chinese Reds flapping Communist banners and singing Red songs, attacked the Americans when two platoons of 70 men charged into the prison compound to quell the demotion of Prince Murphy vs James Murphy.

Entrenched behind four-foot high stone wall foundations of their new winter quarters, the Chinese fought with stones, vicious clubs, sharpened staves, and sharpened tripodes.

Although the initial announcement did not specify what weapons were used by the Americans or command officials said most of the prisoner casualties were used by "bullets."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A year-old lass from North Little Rock reigned over the rodeo at the 13th annual Arkansas Livestock Show today.

Frankie Goss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Goss of North Little Rock, last night neareded nine other contestants become Rodeo Queen and win a double bagful of prizes.

Riding her beautiful lomino, which she trained herself, Goss won among other things a white horse, complete riding of and a jeweled watch.

When she was crowned queen by Col. T. H. Paxton, president of the Arkansas Livestock Association, the winner gavuch of the credit for her victory to her horse, but added: "I don't want her to see my new horse because she'll be jealous."

It was the second imp by brown-haired Frankie to win the coveted title. She won heavily-braided, gold velvet riding habit in the final parade before the judges.

Other contestants included Alene Power of Hot Springs, Patsy Barton of Ft. Smith, Alice Perry of Springdale and Faye Minyard of Russellville.

Meanwhile the stock show business of choosing prize-winning livestock centered on bland dairy cattle and Poland China hogs.

In the beef cattle show, Herefords and Aberdeen Angus breeds bid for attention.

Lovely's Hereford of Harrison showed the top prize bull and Glenn Wallace of Nashville showed the champion Hereford female.

Reserve champion bull was exhibited by Brannon of Hope whose stock won several places. Ned Purdie of Hope won several places.

Soft Drink Manufacturer B. T. Brooks of Camden is a double champion in the junior division, scoring with the grand champion bull and animal.

In the dairy division, top honors in Guernsey were won by N. L. Hayes of El Dorado, who showed the lead and champion bull and Roldo Country farm owner of the grand champion female. H. Shields, dairyman near Greenwood, Ark., was the grand champion Holstein female.

The grand senior milking Shorthorn female bull was shown by Bryans of Paris and a F. Smithian, Margaret Becker, of El Dorado, came in third place.

The grand champion Polled Galloway was exhibited by the State Fair.

Arkansas Cities Want Air Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — More representatives from Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas cities lined up today to give their views on proposals of Central Airlines, Inc., to continue and expand its feeder service in the area.

A score of others who appeared before the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday were irreverently in favor of Central's applications.

The five-member board opened the twoday hearing yesterday on the recommendations of examiner Herbert K. Bryan, who heard the evidence in the case.

Central now serves a score of cities in the three states. It has asked that its operating authority be renewed, that it be allowed to add some cities and eliminate others in Oklahoma Kansas and Texas and that it be allowed to expand with segments through Arkansas with terminals at Memphis and Shreveport.

Bryan recommended:

That operating authority be extended for five years that Central be allowed to drop Winfield Arkansas City, Kans., Wewoka-Holmesville, Okla., and Greenville and Gainesville, Tex., that it add Stillwater, Okla., to its route that the board deny Central's request for an Oklahoma City-Dallas line via Chickasha, Lawton-Ft. Sill and Duncan, Okla., that Central be allowed to expand from Texarkana to Little Rock via Hot Springs and that a Little Rock-Memphis segment via Pine Bluff Stuttgart and Helena be rejected. Decision on a Little Rock-Shreveport segment via Pine Bluff, Camden, El Dorado and Magnolia should be delayed until a decision is made in a Texas local service case, he added.

Pioneer Air Lines, and Trans-Texas both seek the Arkansas segment.

Avoiding comment on any merits of the FTC charge, he said it must be taken into account that "vital national and commercial interests, not only of the United States but of the whole world, are at stake."

The issues involved, he said, are too important to become a "political football in national policy or international relations."

"Instead," he stated, "it is essential for nations of the free world to try to reconcile all interests concerned."

"There are a few 'hopeful signs' in the turmoil over foreign aid," Levy stated. He cited the invitations extended by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission to foreign oil-producing countries to act as observers. "This action comes as a first step," he said. "The way toward a future pattern can approach to the problem of western hemisphere oil."

Such aid, Levy added, "is not likely to come in the form of low-cost public subsidies, but rather in the form of a 'creeping socialism' of which the slogan will be 'the power residents respond to appeal of bandmothers.

Slight Hope for Lower Food Prices

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The price per cent in soybeans, which had been rising steadily, dropped sharply today.

The market in the major products of the meat industry, however, showed little change.

Meat Council President John Anderson, who has been emphasizing the importance of the meat industry in the economy, said he believes the price of meat will remain stable.

"The meat industry is a major factor in the economy," he said. "We are trying to keep the price of meat down so that people can afford to buy it."

He also said that the meat industry is doing its best to keep the price of meat down.

Truman and Eisenhower Toss Accusations at Campaign Warm-up

President Says General Is Talking Like Lobbyist While Ike Attacks Foreign Policy

By DON WHITENHEAD

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Dwight D. Eisenhower moved through Michigan today, blasting the Democratic leadership in Washington to the thundering cheers of huge crowds gathered at every stop.

The Michigan drive began impressively and gave an added boost to the optimism among the GOP ranks.

Truman said the Republican presidential nominee is talking

"like one of the lobbyists"

for the private power monopolies.

If he is elected, it will be a long time before you see another of this kind," Truman said.

It was another speech in the President's coolly calculated attempt to destroy Eisenhower's prestige in a "give 'em hell" campaign tour from coast to coast.

Truman is working the role of the Democratic party's "hatchet man" with the calm and relentless assurance of a veteran campaigner going about familiar work.

Leaving his campaign train at Columbia Falls, Mont., he viewed the dam and drove on to Kalispell for a dedicatory speech in the high school gymnasium.

"All of you who are here today had better go over and take another look at this dam, because if the Republicans win this election, it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind," Truman said.

The Republican candidate for President made it perfectly plain in a speech in Boise Idaho, a few weeks ago that he was against dams like this," the President added.

And he said: "If we ever accept the 'Old Guard' view that dams like Hungry Horse and government dams will not produce low cost public power, we will never be able to compete with the power monopolies."

Eisenhower gave this declaration at his first campaign rally in Michigan, at the start of his tour.

Truman's speech at Flint, Mich., at his arrival, blithely for a change, was not a political speech, but a campaign speech.

Central to the speech was the theme that he is on a crusade for good government based on a determination to achieve a program of collective security. And he praised the record of the late GOP Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Sr., in striving for a bipartisan approach to foreign problems.

He promised that if elected, president he would cooperate with Democrats and make them "real partners" in working out basic foreign policies.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — All over the world the U.S. Army and other military forces are training their men in inter-service communications. Communication yesterday officially passed from the Army to the Air Force. The Air Force Communications Center moved its headquarters in Falls, Towns, and El Dorado counties, Ark., to the former command the two Arkansas cities of Little Rock and North Little Rock.

The community said the road could not be opened there because it would be a waste of money to buy and operate the road for $12,000 or more.

At that time there were no offices in the community.

Meanwhile, Dr. W. M. Doty, president of Arkansas State Teachers College at Conway, was one of the leaders who organized the regulars for the state-wide observance of United Nations Day. On Saturday, the day before the election, he addressed the crowd at the rally.

Before Mitchell left last night, he took notice of the recent Republican fever over who would be Governor. His favor should be given to the national ticket, and for office holders who have a Republican opposition in Arkansas.

Contry said Mrs. John Bohner of Pine Bluff, vice chairman of the women's activities in his campaign and that executive director and finance chairman probably would be elected.

he took notice of the recent Republican

He said the Democratic chefs are more interested in

"who's going to be postmaster somewhere" than in the nation's welfare.

The voters here should have no doubt now in determining that the main thing these disgruntled and enraged Democrats who are supporting him are the ones which killed his mother's children.

Mrs. Martin H. Moore, Little Rock.

In 1949 he won the Padreewski prize for his D Major Symphony.

Girl Takes Top Honors at Stock Show

LITTLE ROCK W — A Washington county girl took top honors at the Arkansas State Fair and Livestock Show yesterday with her entry of a 15-month-old, 880-pound Aberdeen Angus calf.

The girl, whose name was not disclosed, was one of the 100 entries in the cattle competition.

Some 12,000 spectators lined the streets of Little Rock and North Little Rock to watch the parade of animals and exhibits.

Two casualties were reported as the crowd swelled in the arena.

Relatively unimportant for him, however, was his work with his own legislative program.

Mitchell said he had arranged that Cheney had agreed to handle the Arkansas-for-Stevenson effort.

Gentry, in turn, announced that he would be campaign manager and finance chairman for the Stevenson campaign later this week.

Stevenson left yesterday for Atlanta, Ga., and another party tour, which was scheduled to be held in that city tomorrow. Party bigwigs from Alaska, California, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida will attend the Atlanta meeting.

Mitchell also revealed here that he had been approached by Col. Alvin Edward L. Welsh, a high post in the justice department.

Mitchell said he had made arrangements to handle Attorney General J. P. McGranery's affairs.

Welch said it was all news to him that the Little Rock man had sought to leave his law practice here.
